Mudhen Season Opens Oct. 1; Ducks, Oct. 22

Duck Season Lasts 45 Days;
Hunters Warned of Rules on Coots

Hunters in the lake region are preparing for the opening bombardment of coots (mudhens) here this coming Sunday, October 1, although the regular duck hunting season does not open until October 22. Due to federal regulations governing the shooting of migratory water fowl, there has been some confusion regarding the opening dates. According to the game code now in force, the shooting of mudhens is permitted in the northern Illinois zone beginning October 1, while the date is somewhat later in the central and southern zones.

This year duck hunters will enjoy 45 days of the sport, from Oct. 22 until Dec. 5 when the season closes.

The regulations on waterfowl hunting place the daily bag limit for ducks at ten in the aggregate, but with a possession limit of 20 in the aggregate. When the daily bag limit includes canvasbacks, redheads, buffleheads and ruddy ducks, not more than three of any one, or more than three in the aggregate, of these kinds may be taken, and possession of these particular kinds of ducks is limited to not more than six of any one kind or six in the aggregate.

The daily bag limit on geese and brant of the kinds permitted to be killed is four in the aggregate of all kinds, and the possession limit is eight in the aggregate. Last year the limits stood at five and ten, respectively. The daily bag limit on coots remains at twenty-five.

No more than two days' bag limit of lawfully taken and lawfully possessed ducks and geese may be transported in any one calendar week out of the state.

Officials of the Department of Conservation are warning hunters to observe the following regulations:

1. Only mudhens may be taken in northern Illinois on Oct. 1. The regular duck season does not open until Oct. 22.

2. The regular shooting hours are 7 a. m. to 4 p. m.

3. In northern Illinois Fox Lake has been set aside as a sanctuary, and shooting is permitted on this body of water only between noon and 2 p. m. each day of the open season.

4. An outboard motor may be used for going to and from a shooting place in the lake, but may not be used while hunting. After arriving at his shooting spot the hunter must take his motor off and place it inside the boat. This applies both to mudhen shooting and later duck hunting.

You Must Have a License

5. Every shooter must have a license. A person under 15 years of age must have written permission of parents or guardian in order to buy a license. Shooters under 16 years of age do not need a duck stamp. A duck stamp is not necessary for shooting mudhens, but is required for ducks, geese and brant.

6. "Rallying" of coots is strictly prohibited. The term rallying means disturbing flocks of birds which are settled on the water by running a boat through them. This does not mean that it is illegal to go through a group of birds going to or from a shooting place, but deliberately running a boat through a flock to disturb them and get them into the air is illegal.

7. All automatic and repeating shotguns must be plugged to hold not more than three shells.

Beware of the Law
8. Hunters who shoot protected species of ducks, or shoot any kind of ducks out of season, are subject to fines. (Ignorance is no excuse in the eyes of the law.) Shooters must make sure of their identifications before pulling the trigger.

9. Some land at the north end of Grass Lake is posted against hunters and hunters must respect this and other posted areas.

Fire Prevention Week Proclaimed By Governor; Asks Citizens To Co-operate

Governor Henry Horner has officially designated the week of October 8 to 14 as Fire Prevention Week. In his proclamation he asks all schools, clubs and other civic organizations and every citizen to cooperate in the fire prevention movement.

"Many fires are caused by thoughtlessness or negligence. Matches or cigarettes should never be discarded near combustible material," the proclamation points out. "Gasoline, naphtha or similar flammable liquids should not be used indoors or near open flame. Bonfires should not be built on windy days or near material which will burn. Heating plants should not be lighted for winter until it is determined that the plant, smoke pipe and flue are safe."

Junior Drum-Bugle Corps Shines In Big Legion Parade

Starting from "scratch" less than nine months ago and appearing Tuesday as a featured attraction in a big time parade—that's the proud achievement of the 45 members of the Antioch Junior Legion Drum and Bugle corps. They saw, and were a part of, the great American Legion parade held Tuesday in connection with the Legionnaires' annual national convention in Chicago.

Those who saw the local corps on parade say the youngsters played like veterans, proudly displaying the big "Antioch" on the bass drums and stepping along with the seasoned veterans as though it were all just in their day's work. The group entered the parade at Huron and Michigan avenue at 4:00 o'clock and marched and played for an hour and a half, through the stadium and past the reviewing stand, where their entry was announced over the public address system and over the radio. They left the parade at the outer drive.

A special chartered coach took the youngsters to the city and all day until their return here that night they were in the personal charge of Corps Manager Otto Klass and his assistant Harry Messinger. The group had lunch at Gus' famous restaurant, at 420 N. Dearborn street, where Dan Lightsey had made reservations for them, and they favored the diners with a few selections during the noon hour. The music got them an invitation from Gus to return for dinner—and more music.

Among the other local Legionnaires in Chicago for the convention Tuesday were: Wm. Phillips and wife; Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Zimmerman; Ray Webb, Clyde Fields, Clarence Waters, Nick Neidleroff, Walter Hills; Dr. E. J. Lutterman, William White, Bernie Fields, Earl Pittman, Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Bratrude, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Horan, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shultis, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Jensen.

The personnel of the Corps includes 45 members. Those who appeared in the big parade include: Color Guards and Flag bearers—Donald Hills, Robt. Gross, William Chase and Robert Smith; directing drum major—William Phillips; twirling drum major—Hubert Severs of Fox Lake; majorette—Carol Waters; burlesque gunner—Jimmy Phillips.

Trumpeters—Allen DeBates; Jack White; James Atwood; Dudley Ward; Jack Messinger; Donald Heath; Thomas Chase; Walter Hills, Jr.; Richard Truax; Charles Truax; Henry Glenn; Ray Horan; Bud Maplethorpe; Donald Bratrude; William Hanford; Robt. Hanford; Teddy Monkman; Fox Lake; William Bledsoe, Ingleside; Howard Atwood and Bud Lesh.

Side Drums—Roy Aronson; John Horan, Jr.; William Johnson; Orville Winfield; Wesley Monkman; Fox Lake; Sonny Klass and Jack Spay.

Bass Drums—George Winfield and Robert Phillips. Cymbals—Donald Phillips and Bill Messinger.

OVER THE HURDLES

Catch Alligator In Cedar Lake

Imagine the astonished look that came over the face of Mr. Al. B. Maier, last Sunday at Cedar Lake, when an excited woman told him that an alligator had threatened her on the north shore of the lake. The woman was Mrs. J. B. Mudd who was swimming in the lake when she made the startling discovery.

Imagine further, if you can, the surprise that greeted Maier and two others who had come to assist, when they found the story to be true. It was an alligator, and a 42-inch one at that. How he got there, nobody knows. "Snap" went the jaws of the gator when a heavy rope was thrown at it. Would he let go? No, he wouldn't let go. He clung so tightly that the three men dragged him along. He's in captivity now. He was taken to the Brookfield zoo last Tuesday, where he feels better in a heated apartment. Wait a life!

The Cedar lake specimen is about seven years old, according to the keeper of the reptile house at Brookfield.

Hold Funeral for Mrs. Sophia Martin

Mother of Mrs. Jos. Horton
Dies Sunday at Age of 81

Funeral services for Mrs. Sophia Martin, nee Ginter, were held Wednesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Horton, Rev. P. T. Boli, former pastor of the Antioch Methodist church, officiated. Burial was in Millburn cemetery.

Mrs. Martin passed away Sunday following a brief illness, at the age of 81. She was born in Germany April 26, 1858, and came with her parents to America when 12 years old. The family settled in Chicago.

In 1877 she was united in marriage to John Martin who preceded her in death twenty-three years ago.

In 1898 they moved to a farm five miles southeast of Antioch where they resided until 1916, when they moved to the village of Antioch. To this union four children were born, Lizzie Wood of Toledo, Ohio, George of Kenosha, Myrtle Horton of Antioch, and one son, William, predeceasing her in death twenty-five years ago.

The survivors besides her three children and one sister who resides in Chicago, are nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren, besides hosts of other relatives and friends.

Pointer and Setter Club Releases Pheasants

The Lake County Pointer and Setter club will release approximately 600 pheasants at various spots in the county, including Grayslake, Volo, Libertyville and Antioch.

The birds have been raised and cared for entirely at the expense of the club members, but after they are released they are free game for anyone. The pheasants are prated among members to be turned loose at spots they have secured in the county. There are 130 members in the club, and they are making every possible effort to keep plenty of pheasants in the county.

Antioch To Have Wild Duck Refuge

Deputy Wardens to Guard
Wild Life Haven
Here

Through the efforts of the Antioch Rod and Gun club and the Conservation club of the Antioch Township High school, this village can now boast of being one of the few villages in the nation that has a migratory water fowl refuge within the limits of the village.

Lake Antioch (artificial body of water created some years ago, and later partly drained) has been set aside by civic-minded property owners to provide a safe place for ducks to feed and loaf.

With the enacting of the new law on duck shooting the hunters in this locality will benefit by having such a place to induce the wild fowl to remain in this locality, thus providing better shooting on the neighboring lakes when the shooting season opens on October 22. It is believed that the ducks will not be driven down the Illinois river soon after "hostilities" begin, but will remain here longer due to their having a place of rest and protection.

Hundreds of ducks are coming to the lake every evening and it affords a wonderful sight to local and tourist people. It is claimed that lovers of nature are driving many miles to witness the sight. Visitors from Chicago and other places have commented favorably upon the plan of establishing the refuge here and state that the community should benefit from the project.

The local Rod and Gun club invite the people to visit the lake and watch the ducks come in about sunset time each day.

Shooting on the lake would prove a real hazard to residents of the village, and it is pointed out that about one-third of the lake lies within the corporation limits and the existing ordinance expressly forbids the discharge of firearms within the village. The other portion of the lake is posted against hunting by owners of the property. Sportsmen of the community ask the co-operation of all residents to assist in making the project a success. The Department of Conservation of the state of Illinois is providing refuge signs and assigning a number of deputies to the area to guard against any infractions of law.

Recreation Project Offers Free Knitting Instruction

Registrations can be made now for free knitting and crocheting classes of instruction at the Antioch Grade School, and everyone in this locality is invited to take advantage of this new activity made possible by the WPA Recreation Project which is sponsored by the Antioch Recreation Board.

Classes for women will be formed for either afternoons or evenings and on Saturday. Mrs. Jennie Cooper who is an experienced knitter and crocheter, will be glad to arrange the time for anyone interested in starting articles, or she will also advise and assist in hand work which has already been started.

With cooler days ahead and Christmas gifts to be thought of, it is expected that many will welcome this opportunity of beginning their hand work such as sweaters, dresses and suits, purses, rugs, table pieces and luncheon sets, etc.

U. S. Seeks Recruits For Regular Army

An intensive drive is now in progress throughout the United States to bring the Regular Army up to its authorized peace-time strength. In this connection, recruiting parties from Fort Sheridan are being sent to all cities and towns within a radius of seventy-five miles of this post. These parties will stop in your locality and establish a headquarters at which all information regarding enlistment in the United States Army may be obtained.

It is the desire of the War Department to attract young men of character and intelligence, who will profit by their service in the Army and who will become better citizens upon their return to civilian life.

Later Vacations Are Better

You hear a lot of old-timers say the seasons are changing. It's the cause of quite a bit of conjecture, and a good many people think it's true. But it's definite that one kind of season is shifting. That's the travel season.

Bert Vanderwarf, head of the Chicago Motor club touring bureau, says there's a definite trend toward later vacations. Every year now for the past four or five seasons, more and more motorists are seeing the advantages of vacationing in September, and even October.

It used to be that Labor Day marked the official close of all vacations. But now those who have to take their vacations later are thanking their bosses instead of stewing about it, and here are three reasons why:

1. Weather is more pleasant for driving and sight-seeing in early fall.

2. Many popular resorts are open, and their prices are more reasonable after Labor Day.

3. Highways are uncrowded. . . no fighting the clamor of traffic-jammed roads in the heat.

It has been the rule among the business people in the lake region for the past several years to remain on the job here during the resort season, entertaining and helping others to have a pleasant vacation, waiting for their own recreation until after Labor day. There has been no complaint about having to wait—and the fish bite better, too, at the later season, anglers say.

President Less Cock-sure of Himself and "Brain-Trust" Boys—Seeks Counsel of Seasoned Statesmen

The news reports that the President's "brain trust" has been dropped, is indicative of a shift in White House policy. The brain trusters will keep their official government jobs apparently, but they will no longer be such potent behind-the-throne influences.

The new group of Presidential advisers is very different. Most of them are older, and experienced in government. By comparison with the "brain trust," they are conservative. They are well informed on foreign affairs, and some of them were high in the government during the World War.

Newsmen report that the President is graver, less jovial. They say Presidentially-inspired "experiments" are out for the duration of the war—and that a new policy highly encouraging to business will be quietly adopted.

Test of Patriotism

National defense requires a balanced Federal budget. This is as evident at the present time as the need for an adequate army and navy. Our grossly unbalanced budget coupled with an unparalleled national debt of nearly $45,000,000,000 is an open invitation to trouble. It is a critical weakness in our first line of defense which the best military strategist cannot overcome. It is up to the people—and the politicians they elect—to either raise more money through broadening the tax base, or economize by trimming non-essential government services.

And again it must be emphasized that economy in government starts at home. Local business men, civic organizations, men of affairs in small communities who bear modest responsibilities, will have to lead the way. Projects (financed with Federal money of course) to build parks, boulevards, auditoriums, palatial schools, swimming pools, sewers, etc., etc., all of which should be paid for by the local community enjoying them, will have to be foregone in favor of national solvency—and national defense.

Here is a sound test of patriotism, measured not by flag waving, but by plain arithmetic.

Neutrality—A Practical Necessity

Now that Europe is again at war, the question in the mind of every American is, Can America stay out? Or must she join in the chaotic debacle as she did in 1917? Some feel that this country should enter wholeheartedly in a united effort to maintain tolerance and freedom the world over, even if such a course leads to war. They believe that saving the world for Democracy on foreign shores will forestall possible attack in the Western Hemisphere. But actually we have reached the point where American neutrality is a practical as well as an idealistic necessity.

If this nation goes to war, freedom and representative government will automatically end, perhaps permanently. Brief study of "M Day" (mobilization day) recently drawn up by military officials, encompassing the entire economic life of the nation, is sufficient proof of this fact. We will have one-man government in this country from the instant war is declared, just as completely as Germany has been subjugated to the will of one man. Likewise, in view of the present Federal debt, a war would mean ultimate financial chaos—which alone is sufficient to destroy freedom.

The greatest service that this country can render the world today is through maintenance of representative government, tolerance, and individual liberty within its own borders. Only by doing that can the arts of peace be preserved and a threshold saved for the rebuilding of world civilization after chaos has had its day abroad.

Time to Go to War!

It is time for America to go to war—but not in Europe. The battle field is right here—in your home, and place of business. The enemy is fire.

It is no mean enemy. Each year it destroys property worth several hundred million dollars. It kills thousands of human beings. It destroys great numbers of jobs. It destroys hopes, ambitions, opportunities. It leaves behind scenes of smoking ruins as grim as if bombs had been the instruments of destruction. It strikes when we least expect it, and often where there is no defense.

This year, as in every year for two decades, a definite date has been set for declaring war against fire. The mobilization days are October 8 to 14. The occasion is Fire Prevention Week.

During that period every citizen in the land will be given an unrivaled opportunity to learn about fire, and how it may be prevented and controlled. This is no dry-as-dust subject. It will be taught to you vividly and dramatically. Approach it with an open interested mind. Remember what you read and hear and see. For fire prevention is of the most direct importance to you. No one knows where fire will strike next—your home has as much chance to be the scene of ruin as anyone else's. Your town may witness a conflagration that will bring civic progress to an end.

There can never be too many soldiers in the fire-fighting army. Enlist for the duration of hostilities!

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

JUST WHAT IS GOOD WILL?

A FEW months ago, according to that beguiling writer, Bruce Barton, a large factory caught fire. It burned to the ground. Sirens shrieked. Crowds milled. Firemen fought the flames. Newspaper reporters scurried here and there after stories. Consternation reigned.

Amid all this confusion the most serene man in sight was the president of the factory, he who should have been the most excited. Alighting from his car, he strolled over to where that which he had spent years in building was becoming a total loss. He was calm, at ease, undisturbed.

A newspaper man spied him, asked him why he was no more concerned. He explained that the loss was fully covered by insurance and that, besides, the most valuable asset of the business hadn't even been touched by the fire.

"To what asset do you refer, Mr. Burlingame?"

"Why, to our good will. We can build a new factory—now we'll have to. We can buy new machinery—better machinery than was in the old plant. As long as the good will of a business is intact, nothing else matters," he concluded.

He was right. The most important thing a business man has is the good will of his customers. Every business which has that is successful; every business which does not have it fails.

Good will is not a mysterious quality like genius. It is a simple, commonsense matter depending upon doing simple, commonsense things.

The first of these consists of giving good value and service, that the business may win and hold friends. The second consists of making the fact that the business is the kind which wins and holds friends known to its customers, by telling them of its ideals and its services and its merchandise.

This telling process is called advertising. Whenever a manufacturer or a merchant advertises in the newspaper he informs you that he is the kind of business man whom it would pay you to patronize. He makes public the fact that he wants good will and that he realizes the only way he can keep it is by living up to his promises.

You as a customer get more for your money when you patronize a concern with good will. Good will is proof that the concern has done something to warrant the friendship and confidence of its customers.

You see, good will doesn't just happen. It is created by good goods, by good service, by good advertising.

THE INFANCY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 2:1-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—And they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.—Matthew 1:23.

Looking forward to an experience in life which promises to be both interesting and profitable always brings a glow of expectation. Something of that spirit should pervade the Bible schools of our land as they begin a six-months study in the Gospel of Matthew.

Consideration of our Lord's life properly starts with the story of His birth, but we reserve that for our Christmas lesson. Today we stress the manner in which the Child Jesus was received into the world. Men then as now, were either for Him or against Him. God had only one attitude, that of loving protection and preparation of His Son for His ministry.

1. Christ in the World of Men. The world of today is far different from that of the first century, but the difference is all on the outside. Almost breath taking have been the developments of modern civilization, but these have not changed the heart of man. He still fears and hates and fights and sins. His attitude toward Christ is unchanged. There are still only two classes of people in the world—those who have received Christ and are saved, and those who have rejected Him and are lost.

How do men show their rejection of God's Son? Just as they did at His birth: by a. Fear. Herod was afraid lest the coming of this one should result in the loss of his ill-gotten gains. His anger and fear made all Jerusalem afraid. b. Indifference. When the Wise Men asked where Christ was to be born, the priests and scribes knew exactly where to find the facts in the Holy Scriptures, but having done so, they relapsed into utter indifference. They had no interest in the fulfillment of the prophecy. c. Hatred. Herod poured out the violence of his heart by killing the first-born. He was the first of many who have raged against the Christ in futile anger. d. Sorrow. The tears of the mothers of Jerusalem but foreshadowed the weeping and wailing which characterizes Christ-rejection both in time and eternity.

2. For Christ. Thanks be to God, there were those in that day who were for Christ and, like those who follow Him today, they showed: a. Spirituality. Men have marveled that the Magi knew of the birth of Christ. They must have studied the prophecies of the Word and been responsive to the teaching and moving of the Holy Spirit. Can we say as much for ourselves? b. Interest. Not content to know and to marvel, they abated the priests of Israel by their persistent interest in this great thing which had come to pass. c. Love. They brought themselves in worship and they brought rich gifts from their treasures. You can give without loving, but you cannot love without giving. d. Action. They came. They persisted until they found the Christ. Then they listened to God and protected His Son by not returning to Herod.

3. Christ in God's World. Men had brought sin and ruin into the world. They had rejected His Son, but God still ruled and we see Him protecting, preparing, and fulfilling prophecy through His Son.

1. Protecting. Men may hate and seek to destroy God's Son. Satan may inspire them with ingenuity and cunning, but see how the Eternal One speaks to Joseph in dreams, how He prepares a place of refuge in Egypt and ultimately in Nazareth, where the boy Jesus may increase in wisdom and stature and favor with God and man.

2. Preparing. God knows of the days of public ministry which are ahead and above all, of that day when on Golgotha's hill Christ was, in His own body, to prepare salvation for you and for me. God is not taken by surprise. He moves forward to the completion of His plan with the stately tread of eternity.

3. Fulfilling. God also sees to it that prophecy is fulfilled. We read in verses 15 and 23, "that it might be fulfilled" and in verse 17, "then was fulfilled." God's Word is always true, for He makes it so. His infinite and eternal faithfulness guarantees the fulfillment of every prophecy; yes, and of every promise of His Holy Word.

Progress of Mankind
In my youth, looking at this man and that, I marvelled that humanity had made so little progress. Now, looking at man in the multitude, I marvel that they have advanced so far.—George Gissing.

No Love Without Service
It is as impossible for love to thrive without service as for a plant to grow without soil. Love feeds on what we give, not on what we get.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LABINE

Congress, Like Entire Nation Not Certain of 'Best' Course To Preserve U. S. Neutrality

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS: Admonition

"I have come back to Washington with an open mind. Whether I vote for repeal of embargoes or retention of them, my vote . . . will be for the means which I believe best calculated to keep the United States out of war. That we must do."

Illinois' Sen. Scott Lucas, a middle-of-the-road Democrat, was bold enough to admit publicly what most of the nation's 531 legislators admitted only to themselves: That no man could stamp his foot and say there was only one way to keep the U. S. out of Europe's war. But a few who took their seats in Franklin Roosevelt's third special session (and the nation's twenty-fifth since 1787) were highly opinionated, 100 per cent positive that only the arms embargo they pushed through congress three years ago could keep America neutral. Among these few were Idaho's Borah, North Dakota's Nye, Michigan's Vandenberg and Missouri's Clark.

ILLINOIS' LUCAS

But national leaders, being merely men, were confronted with the same confusion as the nation: The more they thought about arms embargo vs. "cash and carry," the more they argued about straight international law vs. specific neutrality legislation, the less positive they were about everything save one fact, that the U. S. must keep out of war.

Day before congress opened, politics found itself "adjourned" for 85 minutes. To the White House went Republicanism's 1930 standard bearers, Alf Landon and Col. Frank Knox, to talk with Franklin Roosevelt, John Nance Garner and congressional leaders of both stripes. Even the President was apparently confused, for there were rumors he had decided to supplement straight "cash and carry" (whereby belligerents could buy, pay for and haul away arms in their own ships) with old-fashioned international law. His thesis: One principle of international law never disputed is that belligerents have the right to purchase anything they need in neutral countries.

Only concrete results of the conference were the platitudes everyone expected, announced by White House Secretary Steve Early:

(1) "The conference with unanimous thought discussed the primary objective of keeping the U. S. neutral and at peace."

(2) "There was complete accord that . . . the whole subject be dealt with in a wholly non-partisan spirit."

Next day, at 2 p. m., the assembled houses of congress heard Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations:

"Let those who seek to retain the present embargo position be wholly consistent and seek new legislation to cut off cloth and copper and meat and wheat and a thousand other articles from all the nations at war."

"I seek a greater consistency through repeal of the embargo provisions and a return to international law . . . I give you my deep and unalterable conviction that by the repeal . . . the United States will more probably remain at peace than if the law remains as it stands today."

"May you, by your deeds show the world that we of the United States are one people, of one mind, one spirit, one clear resolution, walking before God in the light of the living."

NOTABLES

In the news

DUKE OF WINDSOR was named major general of British expeditionary forces and planned to go back to France.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB, native of Loretto, Pa., who rose to control billions of dollars in the steel industry, was buried at New York.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, reportedly renounced his U. S. citizenship and became an Englishman to join the British ministry of shipping.

When the President left the floor, so did 17 isolationists of the Borah-LaFollette-Nye-Clark school. Ringing in their ears was one presidential admonition: "Let no . . . group . . . assume exclusive protectorate over the future well-being of America . . . Let no group assume the exclusive label of the peace bloc. We all belong to it."

After the 17 met, California's crusty Hiram Johnson made an announcement: "We are ready to fight from hell to breakfast."

ASIA:

Mystery

Amazingly brief was Japan's reaction when the U. S. abrogated its 1911 trade treaty last summer. One reason was the immediate upsurge of interest in Europe's dog-fight. But one thing led to another, Japan made peace with Russia, and British-French interests in the Orient were left to fall under Japanese influence. These problems settled, pugnacious Nippon dusted off the U. S. treaty abrogation, mixed it with America's decision to reinforce her Pacific garrisons, and concocted from these ingredients a puzzling diplomatic issue.

Something was in the air. On three successive days Tokyo newspapers carried what were obviously government-inspired editorials which said things like this:

"Should the U. S. strengthen her present policy it can be supposed that Japan would be compelled to assert her right to existence."

"Following the decreasing Anglo-French influence in the Far East . . . the U. S. is threatening to come forward and . . . protect its rights and interests in China, thus giving rise to a greater likelihood of Japanese-American friction."

"Neither Japan nor the United States seeks war . . . We desire to judge the situation coolly . . ."

Trying to figure out this uncalled-for war talk, the Chicago Daily News' A. T. Steele radioed from Tokyo that he thought the Japs were being prepared for "any future drastic American move."

To others, it sounded like Tokyo was making a propaganda buildup to justify anti-American moves in China.

LABOR:

Peace in Wartime

Taking his eyes a moment from Europe's bloody picture show, Franklin Roosevelt glanced at domestic affairs and suddenly realized that October is U. S. labor's big month. At Cincinnati the American Federation of Labor was ready to convene. John Lewis' Congress for Industrial Organization planned to meet in San Francisco October 10. But there was no sign of peace between these two warring factions, and internal warfare is bad business in a time of world war.

Soon, however, there were indications the White House would move for peace, as it has done the past two years. The President conferred with A. F. of L.'s Daniel

MADAME PERKINS
What can you do?

Tobin, a leading advocate of labor unity. At his press conference he assured reporters he would address a message to the A. F. of L. convention, and that "it would be a good guess" to say the message probably would mention peace.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins also did a little campaigning. She told how both factions have asked representation on the new war resources board. Her quandary: If you appoint a representative of both factions, will they carry their fight into the board? Or can you appoint only one representative and say that he truly represents all labor without bringing protests from the other groups?

MISCELLANY:

Thanksgiving

Because President Roosevelt proclaimed Thanksgiving on November 23, and because Gov. George A. Wilson designated November 30, the Clayton county, Iowa, board of supervisors proclaimed a third date, November 18, "so as not to conflict with the dates set by the President and the governor."

THE WAR: Words

Guns still boomed at a nearby Polish outpost when Adolf Hitler rode triumphantly into Danzig.

"We greet you," shouted Albert Forster, who is Der Fuehrer's latest Konrad Henlein.

"I am happy to greet you, my faithful gaudier," answered the man whose armies were even then wiping up the spilled blood of Poland. Then he launched into a speech which the British ministry of information shortly called "full of the crass misstatements which usually fall from his (Hitler's) lips." Typical "misstatements":

"The Duce (Mussolini) made proposals which Germany and France accepted but Britain refused."

"Poland chose war because the western powers stated that the German army was worthless, that the German people were low in morale and that there was a breach between the German people and its leadership."

"Britain should be happy that Germany and Russia reached an agreement. They are now relieved of . . . uncertainty."

Next day, as the New York stock market boomed in hopes of a long war, Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain answered him: "Among the many misstatements . . . I wish to refer . . . to the statement that the French government agreed to Italian mediation while His Majesty's government refused."

"Our purpose . . . is to redeem Europe from perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression. No threats will deter us or our French allies from this purpose."

On the third day French Premier Edouard Daladier had his inning, tracing step-by-step every broken promise that litters Adolf Hitler's trail from the reaffirmation of Locarno to the rape of Poland. Then:

"Germany already has prepared the dismemberment of France. Maps showing France amputated have been printed . . . But France has arisen . . . We will end the war only when we can ensure the security of France."

In the East
Completed was Russia's valiant "rescue" of 11,000,000 white Russians and Ukrainians (plus several million Poles) who were "left to their fate" when the Polish state collapsed under Germany's invasion. Nazi and Soviet chiefs conferred in Moscow on Poland's new partition, presumably deciding to leave a small, hamstrung buffer state: Lithuania and Slovakia were each given a small slice of the Polish pie.

But as war ebbed in Poland, other eastern nations grew fearful. Rumania's neutrality was threatened outside and inside: (1) on the north by Russian-German proximity; (2) on the east by an expected Turkish-Russian pact which might close her Black sea outlet; (3) internally by violence, illustrated in the assassination, presumably by pro-Germans, of anti-Nazi Prime Minister Armand Calinescu.

Meanwhile Der Fuehrer's fast-growing eastern empire suffered growing pains. While millions of sullen Poles presented a constant threat of rebellion, London and Paris heard insistent reports of uprisings among Czechs and Austrians.

In the West
For the moment, fighting died down along the Saar front while both sides took time out to move up fresh troops. But France was fearful on two counts: (1) about 70 Nazi divisions were being moved from Poland to the western front; (2) Aachen, the town from which Germany jumped into Belgium in 1914, was evacuated of civilians and became a concentration point for Herr Hitler's troops. Was history about to be repeated?

At Sea
As the British airplane carrier Courageous went down, its 578 dead boosted Britain's sea toll to 761. Prime Minister Chamberlain reported 31 allied or neutral ships had been sunk by U-boats, also that the allies have sunk seven or eight German subs. Comparisons: In April, 1917, peak month of the World war's sea fighting, average British tonnage loss per week was 127,000, or 39 ships. For the week ending September 19 in the present war, Britain lost 45,000 tons, or 13 ships. Biggest U. S. concern in the sea war: Several American cargoes had been confiscated by Britain; at least one American steamer, the Vascota, had been stopped and searched by a German sub.

Byrd's Ship Is Polar Veteran

Bear of Oakland Rounding
70 Years; Rescuer of Greely and Party.

BOSTON.—A barnacle-smudged old barkentine is being dandied up to take a man back to the frozen Antarctic, where he once cheated death in the polar darkness.

She's the Bear of Oakland, rugged veteran of the ice fields, which the United States government has commissioned, with two other craft, to take Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and an expedition to claim for this country lands already charted by the explorer and transatlantic flier.

Fit After 70 Years.
She's no beauty, as ships go. But she's still fit despite almost 70 years of punishment as a sealer, a watchdog of the coast guard among the ice packs, and most recently the running mate of the flagship Jacob Ruppert during Byrd's last expedition to the South pole in 1933-1935.

If they could tell tales, her ancient planks of honest Scottish oak would speak of death and daring.

Scrubbed clean today, her decks have been wet with the blood of men and animals. For the Bear of Oakland, fresh from the ways at Dundee, Scotland, in 1874, got her baptism at sea in what mariners call the bloodiest hunting in the world—sealing in the treacherous north Atlantic.

Where workers flock her masts today, armed with paint pots, weather-roughened sealers once scanned the icy wilderness and yelled above the smashing of the floes:

"White coats ahead!"

Rescue of Greely.
Her steel-plated prow still bears the telltale scars of years among the ice jams, some of them mementos of the time, in 1884, when she was called by the navy to sail into the Arctic to help rescue Army Lieut. A. W. Greely, who had been lost with an exploration party of 25 men for three years.

True to her name, the Bear of Oakland clawed through the packs, leading a fleet of whalers in the search. In the midst of a howling blizzard, the black rocks of Cape Sabine rose out of the ice and snow, and there the searchers found a message from Greely—dated nine months before—saying he had gone into camp four miles away with "food for 40 days."

It was a small boat from the Bear of Oakland, which effected the actual rescue of Greely and six of his men. These and a grizzly cargo of frozen deer were brought back to the rescue ships to be borne by the Bear back to the States.

Switched to the revenue marine (later the coast guard) in the following year, she began a generation's career as a combination policeman and good Samaritan in Alaskan waters.

Hapsburg Family Crypt
The burial place of the Hapsburg royal family of Austria has been for centuries in the crypt of the monastery of the church of the Capuchin Fathers in Vienna. The church was built in 1652 and the vault is 10 years older. It contains 129 coffins of the royal house. The hearts of many of the royal family are separately interred in the catacombs under the Cathedral Church of St. Stephen's, which was originally built in the twelfth century and is one of the finest in the world.

First Sailing Vessel
The first American sailing vessel was the Virginia, a two-master of 30 tons built in 1607 at Stage Island, near the mouth of the Kennebec river in Maine. She was constructed for the purpose of carrying a small group of discouraged settlers back to England. The Virginia made a number of voyages between America and England.

Baha'i Group Changes Meeting Night to Tuesday

The Antioch-Bristol Baha'i Group have changed their meeting night from Thursdays to each Tuesday evening at 8:30. On Tuesday, October 3, the discussion will be on "Principles of the Baha'i Faith." These meetings are open to the public at no charge whatsoever. They are held in the Matthisen home in Bristol Township which can be reached from Antioch by taking the State Line road east to the first cross road or Deep Lake road, then left and follow road to next cross road which is highway "Q," turn left on "Q" and the Matthisen home is the first house on the right side of the road.

The Baha'i Faith, its proponents claim, is not a new religion but religion renewed. The Baha'i Faith recognizes the unity of God and of His Prophets, upholds the principle of an unfettered search after truth, condemns all forms of superstition and prejudice, teaches that the fundamental purpose of religion is to promote concord and harmony, that religion must go hand-in-hand with science, and it constitutes the sole ultimate basis of a peaceful, an ordered and progressive society. Members of the faith aver that the Baha'i inculcates the principle of equal opportunity, rights and privileges for both sexes, advocates compulsory education, abolishes extremes of poverty and wealth, exalts work performed in the spirit of service to the rank of worship, recommends the adoption of an auxiliary.

General Grant's Home at Galena Attracts Tourists

Of interest to tourists wishing to see historical places in Illinois is the home of Ulysses S. Grant at Galena, Illinois, which was presented to the General at the close of the Civil War, by the citizens of that city. After his death the heirs of his estate returned it to the city of Galena that it might be maintained as a memorial to the former President and Civil War General.

Each room is complete with all its fruit on the dining room table, library, living room, dining room and three bedrooms.

Mr. R. E. Moody, a former world war veteran who acts as custodian of the home, is a very able and courteous guide, explaining in detail the contents of each room.

Of special interest is the dish of fruit on the dining room table, although not airtight and preserved several years ago by Mrs. Grant it is in a complete state of preservation. Also among the articles of interest is a pottery vase some 2000 years old that was presented to General Grant by a Chinese general.

In the library are several personal things belonging both to the one time president and his wife, among which are a pair of shoes and slippers worn by Mrs. Grant when she presided over the White House.

This historical landmark is open to the public and its many items of interest make it a worth while place to visit.

Highlighting Politics

(By John Randall Page)

Washington—The war fever, or hysteria, is subsiding in Washington. After the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, the common comment of the semi-hysterical was, "we'll be drawn in." There was loud talk of censorship, as though we were already at war; of putting the nation on a "war-time basis," which meant almost total control of American life as the controls tightened.

Today calmer counsel is asserting itself, impelled largely by the return of members of Congress to Washington. There is a growing determination that America shall keep out of war, which means remaining neutral in fact as well as in theory. Republicans as a unit are taking their stand on the side of peace and neutrality, and this means definitely that any changes in the neutrality position of the United States will be thoroughly discussed.

One of the most significant changes in official opinion here indicates the almost certain probability that, once convened, Congress will remain in session throughout the emergency to perform its constitutional functions. The New Deal had hoped that it could get Congress to return for a special session, accept the neutrality amendments proposed by the President to permit outright aid to Britain and France, and then adjourn at once. For a few days after war became a reality, permitting him to rule by proclamation after Congress went home.

As members of Congress return, their convictions are summarized somewhat along the following lines: Europe is ablaze. America faces critical issues. These issues are so important that they demand constant watchfulness. Congressmen and senators would be falling short of their oaths of office if they went off vacationing during such times.

This growing sentiment means that Congress, when it is convened in October, probably will remain in Washington until the regular session convenes next January.

One of most incisive comments upon the American situation was given to this correspondent by an observer of many years standing in Washington. It seems to define the whole problem so well that it is repeated here, as follows:

"My slant on the situation is this: the country is not at war and, Congress willing, will never be at war; there is, therefore, no reason for changing the democratic system of government; this is still a three-branch government in which all branches should bear their constitutional responsibilities; there is no necessity for Congress or the Supreme Court to withdraw."

"I can see where it is desirable in national interests to have national unity, but it must be unity through cooperation and not through the opposition withdrawing from the scene or through one man seizing control."

Through the entire complex situation, newspaper observers find a willingness on the part of Republicans and Democrats who have dissented from the Roosevelt views in the past to give him every support to maintain the country's peaceful neutrality. There will be growing demands, however, that their rich experience in foreign affairs be utilized, that they be consulted on important moves, and that they not be asked to become mere "rubber stamps."

Killarney Is Semi-Tropical

It always surprises visitors to note the semi-tropical vegetation about the lakes of Killarney in Ireland. Here grow cedars of Lebanon, wild fuchsia, arbutus, the Mediterranean strawberry tree, found nowhere else in the British Isles, the scented orchid, and other plants common to Spain and Asia Minor.

FARM TOPICS

TURKEY PRODUCTION IS MAJOR INDUSTRY

Fifty-six Per Cent Increase Shown in Past 10 Years.

Nearly $70,000,000 worth of turkeys (at farm prices) were produced last year, reports the bureau of agricultural economics. This figure was somewhat less than for 1937, but was larger than in any other year in the current decade, and probably the second largest in the history of the industry.

Since 1929 the production of turkeys has increased more than 56 per cent—from less than 17,000,000 birds in that year to more than 26,000,000 in 1938. Peak of production during the decade was nearly 28,000,000 turkeys in 1936. Highest prices during the 10-year period were in 1929, lowest in 1933. The 1938 average—$2.66 per bird—was about 16 per cent lower than in 1929.

Principal turkey-producing states in 1938 were Texas (3,285,000 birds), California (2,625,000), Minnesota (2,145,000), Oklahoma (1,418,000), Iowa (1,386,000), North Dakota (1,265,000), and Oregon (1,265,000). About 40 per cent of the 1938 crop was raised in the 12 North Central states as contrasted with only 30 per cent in 1929.

Expansion of the turkey industry during the last 10 years is attributed chiefly to improvements in production and management methods which have lessened the mortality of poults and lowered production costs in competition with chickens and other meats. Production of turkeys in small farm-flocks has decreased in most areas, but this has been more than offset by increased numbers of large flocks which are kept separate from other poultry and handled under improved methods of sanitation, feeding, and marketing.

Flexible Farm Lease

Aids Tenant, Landlord

The Farm Security administration has distributed within the past year 1,000,000 copies of its written lease form designed to improve rental arrangements between farm tenants and landlords. Both have applied in large numbers for this "Flexible Farm Lease" which is intended to take the place of oral agreements that still prevail in many sections of the country.

The "rental rates" clause carries a suggested form for stating exactly the share of each crop or the cash payment the tenant is to give the landlord.

Another matter of concern to the landlord and tenant is the annual renewal of their contract. Leasing from year to year is a prevalent tenure practice. In many cases this procedure works to the disadvantage of both parties. Tenants hesitate to initiate crop rotations; landlords hesitate to make changes or repairs in buildings which may not be needed by succeeding tenants.

To provide for such cases the "Flexible Farm Lease" contains an "automatic renewal" clause. This clause in effect causes the lease to remain in full force until either party wishes to terminate his contract. Termination of the lease is in accordance with a period of notice fixed in the contract.

Save the Manure

Approximately 10 tons of manure are produced annually for each 1,000 pounds of live weight of stock kept on the farm. This manure contains plant food elements to make it worth around $2.50 a ton at commercial fertilizer prices. Besides it provides organic matter for the soil, something essential to crop production. Of course, this value is dependent upon the manner in which the manure is conserved and applied. More than a third of the nitrogen and two-thirds of the potassium are in the liquid portion of the manure. This drains away unless sufficient bedding is used to absorb it. Also there is a loss where the manure is left piled up subject to the weather.

Farm Facts

Last year, according to the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics, approximately 1,000,000 persons moved off farms, while 800,000 moved from towns and cities to farms.

Land now either permanently ruined or seriously damaged by erosion represents an area larger than all farm land in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa and Oregon.

In the United States, breeds of swine are classed as lard-type or bacon-type. Lard-type breeds are the Duroc Jersey, Poland China and Chester White, and bacon-type breeds are the Yorkshire and Tamworth.

Present information indicates that the 1939 pig crop, which includes both fall and spring litters, will total 83,000,000 head. This will exceed the 1938 figure by nearly 12,000,000 and will lack only 1,000,000 of equalling the record production in 1933.

Settlers Seek Sagebrush Soil

Western Irrigation Project To Welcome Hundreds Of Home Seekers.

YAKIMA, WASH.—A year from this summer hundreds of soil-hungry settlers will be establishing themselves on small tracts of central Washington's Roza Irrigation project, preparing to make a living from ground that for decades bristled with sagebrush.

They'll be moving in and erecting cabins even before water is available to turn their land into a productive state, but the chief construction engineer of the project, C. E. Crowover, said that is just what the U. S. reclamation bureau prefers.

Water probably will not be available for the arid lands until the spring of 1941, Crowover said. However, the settlers can take up their tracts several months earlier and begin clearing them and building numerous ditch networks needed on each farm.

Early Arrival Favored.

"It's easy to see that this work must be done before the land will be fitted for irrigation waters," Crowover said. "The job will take time and there's no reason why the settlers can't do it before water from the main canal is available to them."

Virtually all the difficult parts of the $15,000,000 project—started in 1935—have been completed or are under construction. When the unit is finished, it will complement the Yakima valley project, one of the largest reclamation sections in the world.

When all gravity-flow and pump lands are connected to the Roza system, a total of 72,000 acres will be irrigated, providing farms for 1,800 families if the tracts were set aside 40 acres to the settler.

The Roza is in addition to the Tieton, Sunnyside and Kittitas divisions of the Yakima valley project.

The Roza's main canal will be completed to mile 45 with money now in the hands of the reclamation bureau. These funds also will finish the main diversion dam, now under construction at a cost of $325,000, and four spillways.

Ditch to Run 100 Miles.

The largest artery of the system will stretch 100 miles when it is completed.

The lateral ditchworks will be built next summer. This may be done on small contracts or, to save money, the government may decide to put the Civilian Conservation corps on part of the job. But indications are that local contractors will get the work.

Those who want to settle on the reclaimed lands need not fear speculation, for the reclamation bureau—through J. S. Moore, superintendent of the Yakima valley project—has begun to crack down on any landowners showing such an inclination.

Moore has sent notices to 50 large holders directing them to sell all but 160 acres before water becomes available. The superintendent also has warned owners that if any land is sold above its appraised value, half of the excess will go to the project's cost.

300,000 Dancers, Actors, Singers in Soviet Army

MOSCOW.—Over 300,000 members of the Soviet army are trained as dancers, musicians, singers, actors, and poets.

Every unit in the army and every warship in the navy has its choir, orchestra and dramatic groups. One of the soloists in the Moscow Grand Theater of Opera and Ballet, Vassili Drovynnikov, is a former member of the Red army, where he received his original training in his art.

The arts hold a prominent place in the life of the Soviet soldiers and sailors. In the daytime they spend their time in fields, at airfields, in classrooms or on shooting ranges; in the evening they amuse themselves giving performances or watching the performances of others.

Cycle Has Baby Trailer ASHTABULA, OHIO.—An engineering works employee has devised a "baby trailer" to be attached to bicycles. Mike Zallment, seeking a patent on his device, says that the trailer will enable people to take the baby along on bicycle trips.

Time Change Ignored By Traveling Rooster

MONTREAL.—A rooster which refused to change its rising schedule because the sun in Canada rose five hours later than in its native England arrived here on the last trip of the liner Ascania.

The bird was one of a collection of rare fowl which C. G. May, British delegate, is taking to the World's Poultry congress at Cleveland.

May said the rooster crowed every night at the hour to which it was accustomed in England and made no allowances for sunrise or the various time zones encountered on the crossing.

DOES FEAR OF FAILURE MAKE IT HARDER TO SUCCEED?

I DON'T know of anything on earth that will make success harder, or more impossible. There are no obstacles as great as fear of failure, says Harold Sherman, in his challenging book, "Your Key to Happiness." He shows by many examples that success is always first in the mind, and a fear of failure so controls a person, when it is present, that his emotions lead him naturally to failure. He is an "easy prey to the thing feared," for "fear attracts wrong conditions." This is a principle as old as man himself. (Illustrated by Western Newspaper Union.)

'A Little Bird Told Me'
The phrase "A little bird told me" in various forms is found in many countries and is said to be derived from Ecclesiastes 10:20, "Reveile not the king, no, not in thy thought; and reveile not the rich in thy bedchamber for a bird of the heavens shall carry the voice and that which hath wings shall carry the matter."

Tartans in Scotland
Visitors to Scottish tartan mills report that good loom weavers are women between 50 and 70 years old, who weave from seven to ten yards of tartan a day and are paid the equivalent of 25 cents a yard. The most difficult work is weaving two tartans at once, a different clan's design on each side.

Squirrelly Golf
"That's a squirrelly shot if there ever was one," grumbled Golfer George Wells of Vancouver, Wash., as a hooked tee shot smacked into a tall fir tree. He spoke better than he knew for when he arrived at the base of the tree he found his golf ball and beside it a dead squirrel.

Pollie Thievery
A sign addressed "To whom it may concern" was hung on a parking meter in Salt Lake City, Utah. It read: "A brown leather jacket was taken from this spot yesterday. How about putting it back today?" Next morning a new sign appeared: "Sorry," it read, "I pawned it."

You can go to a country house in Poland, ride, shoot and live on its estate as if you owned thousands of its acres, and only be asked to pay as a guest the equivalent asked by a small boarding house in an average seaside resort.

Belgium is smaller than our state of Maryland, and two Belgians could be accommodated in Illinois; hence it is an ideal vacation land for those Americans who want to see much of a European country with very little travel.

New Look Is Given to Autumn Styles by Bustle Silhouette

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT'S in a name? Well, plenty, judging from the consternation and furore the mention of "bustle" in connection with the new fashions for fall and winter has caused. Immediately, at the mere suggestion of bustles being revived in modern styling, came visions of the amusing monstrosities we of this day have come to associate with the "has been" fashions of the long ago.

As a matter of fact the bustle motif that has succeeded in giving to contemporary fashions such a decidedly new look is far and away from the antiquated bustle of our ancestresses. A more accurate way of expressing the bustle theme as is today, is to speak of it as back-fullness, to achieve which designers are most ingeniously introducing clever drapes, bows, and peplum effects done in a conservative manner.

The emphasis given to back-fullness in current styling has opened avenues of thought to designers, in consequence of which the dresses and coats and jackets shown in the season's collections have taken on an entirely different and refreshing note of interest. With the new back-fullness the simple black dress that is heralded as a perfect autumn "first" becomes a model of high-style distinction.

The various treatments of the back-fullness theme as demonstrated in the illustration conveys the message that there are back-fullnesses and back-fullnesses being interpreted throughout the mode, with not necessarily any two being alike.

See the afternoon dress of voguish velvet shown to the left in the picture. It shows clever manipulation via the peplum method. The spectator sports dress centered in the group, of lightweight woolen, modifies its peplum fullness to a conservative degree.

The sheer black afternoon dress to the right has a wide sash technique which arrives at back-fullness in most pleasing fashion. The hat, designed to complement the bustle silhouette of the dress, has its own bustle, which goes to show that milliners are also subscribing to the bustle theme.

In the inset a pretty evening formal again illustrates the prevailing idea of bustle effects. The bustle is detachable, to be worn at will. Still, crisp silk taffeta yields beautifully.

This matter of back-fullness is not confined to dress design. The new coats have had to be tuned to the bustle-like fullness of the gowns over which they must be worn. In consequence many of the smartest coats of the season are styled with that thought in mind. Some take on fullness at the waistline; others are made with lines that flare from neckline to hem at the back. Unfurred dressmaker coats of this type, made of fine broadcloth or velvety surfaced woollens, rank at the height of fashion. With them a separate fur piece is inevitable which is met in the revival of long fur boas and stoles that recall quaint fashions such as our revered grandmothers wore.

Reaction to the new bustle vogue is seen in the revival of stiff, handsome silks as they so successfully yield to bouffant drapes and bows. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What to Do

By PHYLLIS BELMONT

AFRIEND of mine has just returned from the hospital, but her recuperation will be a lengthy one and instead of sending her flowers I would like to give her something that will add to her comfort during the time she will be spending hours each day in bed. Thank you. MISS D. M. R.

Answer—If your friend must look forward to hours each day spent in bed, aside from the always-welcome flowers a gift that will be doubly appreciated is one of the comfortable bed rests or six-way pillows, which support the body when she is sitting up in bed to read or sew. A special talcum powder, made with olive oil which is softer and more fragrant than the usual bath powder is also a nice thought. An attractive bottle of smelling salts, nicely scented, is almost indispensable in a sickroom. The patient is sure to get a lift with every sniff. And there's always a currently popular book, but be sure its theme is cheerful and not morbid. Phyllis Belmont—WNU Service.

Silver Fox Trim For Cloth Coats

The style prestige of choice silver fox both as a trim for the cloth coat and for the separate fur piece or stole is in nowise abating. Throughout all coat collections you see this fur used to a lavish degree. One of the newer treatments sponsored this fall is the big youthful looking sailor collar which trims many a fashionable coat in advance showings.

IS DAY-DREAMING A BAD HABIT?

DAY-DREAMING may not be a bad habit, but it is certainly a wasteful habit. Its dangers lie in the fact that you are taking yourself more and more out of real life into an imaginative life. This is all right, if you set about it to bring some of the imaginative life into your real life, but if you do not do anything about it, then it is a bad and even dangerous habit. You will soon find yourself going off into a trance, picturing all sorts of impossible things. Better spend that time in active, constructive work which will result in improving your actual life and be helpful to those around you. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Thirst Quencher From Sunny Hawaii

Bling cherries frozen in cubes of canned unsweetened pineapple juice from romantic Hawaii make delicious as well as decorative coolers for orange-lemonade.

WHEN the sun beats down and the mercury starts its climb to the top of the thermometer cool off with a tall glass of refreshing orange-lemonade chilled with ice cubes made from canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice. A bling cherry frozen in each ice cube adds an extra flipp.

To prepare the orange-lemonade allow one-half orange, one-half lemon and 1 tablespoon sugar to each measuring cup of water. Mix the fruit juices and sugar, stir in the water and pour over three pineapple juice ice cubes.

Make the ice cubes by placing bling cherries with the stems on in each cube compartment of your automatic refrigerator trays. Then fill the trays with canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice. To remove the cubes after they have been frozen run warm water on the bottom of each tray. The pineapple juice ice cubes will push out from the metal form easily without immersing in water.

It will take three 1 pint 2 ounce cans of pineapple juice to fill two cube trays. If each tray contains 21 cubes approximately 1 1/4 inches square.

Sequoia Seniors Champs In Soft Ball Tourney

The defeat of the Freshman class at the hands of the powerful Senior class marked the end of the inter-class softball tourney at Antioch High School Monday afternoon.

The victory was the fifth in a row for the Seniors and gave them the right to call themselves "champs" of the entire high school. The second place honors were shared by the Freshmen and Juniors, each winning 3 games against as many defeats. The Sophomores finished in the cellar with no victories to their credit. This was one of the first of the many planned extra-curricular activities sponsored by the Antioch High School Athletic association and under the supervision of Coach R. H. Childers.

Next week the game of 8 man touch football will take the spotlight at the school's athletic field with the four classes again opposing each other for the championship in the football division.

Sequoia Frolic In First Dance of Year

Promenading Antioch High school seniors joined with lower classmates at a dance in the school auditorium, last Friday night, under the guidance of Miss Clara Rasmussen and Mr. Melvin Stillson, faculty advisers. 125 students attended, it was estimated.

The dance was the first one held this school year. Gay colored balloons dangled from the auditorium ceiling, adding to the gayety created by a four-piece student orchestra. At intervals, phonograph recordings were played while the musicians rested.

Fruit punch and cookies kept the crowd coming to the refreshment table where Elinor Behning and Doris Schneider, food committee, served.

Musicians for the evening were George Bartlett, trumpet; Dale Smith, saxophonist; Arthur Small and Robert Hawkins, who alternated as drummers, and Mr. Hans Von Holwede, music teacher, at the piano.

Decorations were put up by Helen Horton, Betty Hauke, Raymond Wells and Raymond Fennema. Toy monkeys, eight inches long, were prized as souvenirs of the fun and merriment.

Several phonograph records were brought by Buster Keulman and Edward Knickelbein.

Boosters Wind Up Season With Win

Local Softballers Down
Waukegan Team,

The Antioch Boosters rung down the curtain on the 1939 soft ball season last Thursday night with a victory over the fast Economy Coal team of Waukegan, 4 to 2.

Heavy hitting by Maleck, Pachay, Madsen and Keulman featured the game with stellar mound work by Ed Monahan.

The Boosters have hung up an imposing record for the season with 21 victories out of 34 games played. It is believed that the locals have perfected an organization that will prove to be among the top notchers in 1940, and they expect to schedule games only with class A teams next year. The local team has been self-supporting, has all equipment paid for, and has played a brand of ball that has proved extremely popular with the fans.

Aces Win Season's Final From Pleasant Prairie

The Antioch Aces wound up the 1939 season last Sunday with a 5 to 1 victory over the Pleasant Prairie team on the latter's grounds. Madsen, on the firing line for the Aces, allowed only two hits, but five errors on the part of his teammates aided the Prairie squad to their lone tally in the fourth.

English Girl Tells of Dread of War in Letter to Antioch Friend

Stern realities of war are vividly portrayed in a letter written by a young lady in England to her friend in America on the very day that Britain entered the present European conflict. The letter was received here by Miss Lois Hieber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hieber, from her young friend, Miss Megan Bowen, of Birmingham, England. The pair began their correspondence five years ago through the medium of the World Friendship circle. Miss Hieber has never seen her English friend.

My Dear Lois,
To-day, Sept. 3rd, war was accepted as the only result here in England and from 11 A. M. to-day war had started. It's the most horrible thought, but we have all taken this declaration with the most utter calmness. Our lives are all at stake either at home or fighting out at the front and the whole business is anything but human. My letter may not even get to you, Lois—I hope it does, if so please continue to write to me. I shall do my best to keep in touch with you, health and circumstances permitting.

The whole business holds nothing but sadness for me. You know what a quiet dull existence I used to live without Skip—and about a month ago my girl friend introduced me to a grand bunch of people, one of whom (Tim) I liked an awful lot. He happens to be a lieutenant in the Westchester Regiment and on Friday we planned a grand week-end together. To-day is Sunday. War has started. Tim was called up immediately. I have no idea where he is and wasn't even able to wish him goodbye. I received a telegram telling me of his leave, and that was that. Skip has joined the Royal Air Force. I haven't seen him for a month and now—well, one never knows what will happen to any of us. We just pray, and hope that our prayers may be answered. My brother will have to do his share in warfare, and my mother is on the verge of a breakdown. We three girls are working in the 2nd largest town in England under dangerous circumstances and we don't know where Jack might be sent. My sister was getting married but this alters everything—her fiancé will be required for National service.

Forgive me, Lois, if my letter is horribly depressing. I've just written to Skip begging of him to keep in touch with me. The whole thing seems absolutely incredible.

Well, I'm just rambling on and I haven't even thanked you for your letter. I'm answering it almost immediately. Your dress sounds very sweet. Yes, I have seen the color combination, and love it, and your present to me arrived in perfect condition, you'll be pleased to hear, and how I love it—it's just perfectly sweet. Is it 19 years old, that you will be this month? I haven't forgotten you, Lois. I'll be writing to you again very soon.

I have done such a lot of letter writing this afternoon, Lois, forgive me dear if I close now, but I know you will understand.

At the moment it's so gloriously peaceful at home, the sun is shining and the garden just grand, and as I sit here—war is unbelievable, but to-day it was decided, and by the time

Brown and Cream Are License Colors for 1940

Illinois' selection of colors for 1940 license plates, cream on brown, are yet unduplicated in the array of combinations which the 48 states and United States possessions have chosen, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. Three states have not yet reported their colors.

"Nearly every shade in the spectrum will be employed this coming year," he said, "though white on black, white on blue, yellow on black and black on yellow are the most popular, having been chosen by 19 states."
